

SECOND GASLESS DAY PROMISING

Voluntary Saving So Effective, Rationing Is Not Proposed.

Motorless Sundays, the United States Fuel Administration reiterated last night on the eve of the second Sunday of gasoline conservation, are not the object of an order but of a patriotic appeal.

The administration issues a statement to correct an impression that compulsion is involved and that rationing of gasoline will be instituted. It is explained that the need is not great enough for the expense that would be incurred by such a system as worked out in England.

The appeal to refrain from unnecessary motoring Sundays was limited to the territory east of the Mississippi River, it is explained, because the bulk of the country's gasoline is obtained in the mid-continent fields, in Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Louisiana, and all oil and gasoline sent to the war zone is shipped from the Atlantic seaboard, so that transportation is saved by conservation in the east.

How to Get to Church.
In answer to queries as to whether one may use an automobile for going to church, it is suggested that if church is reached reasonably in any other way, the other way should be used. President Wilson last Sunday used a horse-drawn carriage; other officials in the capital rode on street cars or walked. The conscience of each citizen must be his guide, the administration says.

The streets of Washington will be deserted today so far as automobiles are concerned. In fact the city will look somewhat as it looked in the days before the invention of the "horseless carriage."

The District Fuel Administration predicts that the observance today will be better even than it was last Sunday, when less than 5 percent of the cars of Washington operated. The observance was so general last Sunday that the Fuel Administration did not think it necessary to issue a mandatory order prohibiting the use of gas, and, the conservation will be effected by the patriotism of the automobile owners.

Owing to the fact that several doctors were stopped last Sunday when they were on business, doctors have been requested to display prominent signs on their cars indicating their professional status.

Many electric lights, which are not affected by the gasoline-saving request, will be about the streets and their owners are inclined to laugh at the gas conservation of the power plant and petroleum-consuming cars.

On the whole it is expected that today's conservation will be greater than last Sunday's. The request has been so far and is expected to be obeyed in the spirit as well as the letter.

RAY BAKER WILL BUY ALL DONATED METAL

Aids Salvage Committee to Raise Funds for Red Cross.

Salvage your platinum for the Red Cross is the appeal of Mrs. John Allan Dougherty, chairman of the salvage committee.

"Since the Director of the Mint, Raymond T. Baker, has promised to buy the Red Cross for all metal donated," said Mrs. Dougherty, when she yesterday at salvage headquarters, Delaware avenue and C street northeast, "we ask patriotic Washingtonians to send us all their jewelry not in actual use."

"Platinum is especially needed for war manufactures and invaluable chains and all sorts of ornaments will be doubly welcome as furnishing metal needed in war work and as helping to finance the Red Cross."

"Director of the Mint Baker has declared that for all metal sent to the Treasury a check will be sent to the Red Cross at once."

"Articles of jewelry are welcome as are scraps of platinum, large and small."

EMPLOYEES ASK WAGE INCREASE

National Federation Urges Living Salaries at Chicago Convention.

Comprehensive plans for obtaining salary increases based on the increased cost of living will be drafted at the National Federation of Federal Employees' second annual convention opening tomorrow in Chicago.

The presiding officer will be Luther C. Steward, of Washington, director of the control division of the U. S. Employment Service, who was recently elected by the executive council of the federation to fill the vacancy caused by the induction of former President H. M. McLean into the army. President Steward, John S. Beach, seventh vice president and acting president; and E. J. Newmyer, secretary-treasurer of the national union, will attend the meeting.

The delegates from Washington Local No. 2 are Miss Beatrice Allpress, of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing; Miss Florence P. Smith, of the Bureau of Plant Industry; Van A. Zahn, of the office of auditor for the Post Office Department, treasurer of Local No. 2; and E. J. Payne, of the Treasury branch.

J. G. Gurley, of the Department of Agriculture, editor of the official magazine of the union, also is a delegate. The District employees, represented by its secretary, W. F. Franklin, and Local No. 7, by its president, Richard Taylor.

Miss Florence Etheridge, third vice president of the National Federation, formerly of Washington, will also be present.

She will be the attorney for the Bureau of Indian Affairs at Tulsa, Okla., will attend the convention. She also is representative of her Oklahoma local.

Better Working Conditions.
In accordance with the primary purpose of the organization, the convention will devote itself largely to plans for the betterment of working conditions of government employees and increased efficiency in the government service. It is expected that a comprehensive campaign will be outlined for securing salary increases based on the increased cost of living, with a minimum wage and equal pay for equal work by women and men, in accordance with the principles laid down by the National War Labor Board.

Men and women in the government service in some localities are receiving scarcely half the wages paid elsewhere, according to President Steward. He cites, among other examples, the case of men in the custodial service at federal buildings in various cities, who are getting but $55 per month. Another instance is that of the janitors, who are paid $1.50 a day. Another instance is that of the janitors, who are paid $1.50 a day. Another instance is that of the janitors, who are paid $1.50 a day.

After War Adjustments.
The convention will also discuss measures for dealing with the problems of industrial readjustment after the war, particularly with reference to the prevention of unemployment. To meet the critical conditions after the war, says President Steward, "a sound government policy is necessary, and the organized Federal employees should, I think, begin at once to plan for the future."

"The government has the right to create public sentiment for such a policy. I am urging, therefore, that the convention formulate, in broad general terms, the principles we believe should be established in order to work out the right reconstruction program."

"Such a program," he continues, "must obviously work in two directions—first, toward the provision of more jobs for the vast increased number of workers the war has put into industry, and second toward the withdrawal, under proper conditions, of those who are either too old, too young, or otherwise unfitted for work."

Therefore, it seems to me, to put our organized effort behind a movement for more extensive and better regulated plans for public construction or more jobs for the vast increased number of workers the war has put into industry, and second toward the withdrawal, under proper conditions, of those who are either too old, too young, or otherwise unfitted for work."

"In addition to the reclamation of land for soldiers' homesteads, as proposed by Secretary Lane, we ought to urge the government to encourage a back-to-the-land movement by forcing into productivity, through taxation, the great tracts of unused agricultural land now held by single owners. This would mean homes and a living for great numbers of people."

Help Young and Old.
"On the other hand, there are great numbers of men and women now at work who should be relieved of that necessity because of their age or infirmity. There are children of 14 to 16 in mills and factories when they ought to be in school. There are vast numbers of men and women who are not receiving an adequate wage for the support of themselves or their families, and something must be done to forestall the infinitely worse effects of this condition. It would come with a congested labor market."

"Therefore we as organized workers should demand legislation which will provide a fair minimum wage, old age, health and unemployment insurance, and the complete elimination of child labor. We should demand, for times of peace, income, inheritance and excess profits taxes which will put the burden upon those who can most easily bear it. And we should demand at the same time a control of prices of the necessities of life in order to protect the wage earners and consumers."

"To support any program, however," declares Mr. Steward, "and to enforce it after it is secured, the first necessary step is organization. An intensive organization program will, I hope, be provided for by our convention, to reach all the 400,000 government workers in the United States. With thorough organization we can hope not only to secure the reorganization and reclassification of the United States Civil Service upon a just and business-like basis, but we can be a potent force in securing measures of justice and well-being also for all the great brotherhood of workers of which we are a part."

Liquid Air Used to Fill Life Belt.
A life belt is shown in the Popular Mechanics Magazine which can be worn deflated until an emergency arises and can then be filled with air in an instant by means of a cartridge attached to it, containing liquid air. The air is released into the soft rubber article by lifting the cartridge to a position at right angles to the body and pressing on it. Inflated in this manner the belt will support 500 pounds in the water. It is claimed.

22 PERSONS AWAIT TRIAL IN D. C. FOR LIFE TAKING

William Clements, Charged with Killing of Watchman King, Under Indictment for First Degree Murder.

A score or more of defendants accused of taking human life are awaiting trial at the October term of court. Of the twenty-two persons in this position, all but two are colored, and many are charged with first degree murder.

The case against William Clements and Herbert L. Copeland stands out in bold relief so far as sensational features are involved. The former is under indictment for first degree murder; and is accused of having killed Night Watchman King, of the Bureau of Publicity, 16 Jackson place, on the morning of April 5 last.

Copeland is the negro who related service of a subpoena in a civil suit where he was wanted as a witness, and in the melee that ensued, killed three local policemen and a constable from a town in Maryland. The tragic affair took place on the morning of June 25, and Copeland was badly injured in the efforts to arrest him.

Two Man-slaughter Cases.
Charles H. Coombs and Charles C. Gillingham are each charged with manslaughter, and both are out on light bonds. The former is alleged to have killed Pearl Green March 27 last. Gillingham was the motorman on a Washington, Baltimore and Annapolis electric car which ran into a truck that had been backed on the track, killing Samuel Minor, the colored helper. The district attorney's office does not attach much importance to this case, as the evidence shows the killing was purely accidental. Gillingham was charged with manslaughter by the coroner's jury, and has never been indicted. It is thought the latter will ignore the charge.

Joseph Y. Saunders has been in jail a long time awaiting trial for the killing of a colored girl named Elvira Taylor on May 5, 1917, in the woods near the District line. It is claimed the sister of the girl was the common-law wife of Saunders, and that she became jealous of the latter's attentions to Elvira, who was only 14. It is said Saunders was given the alternative of either getting rid of the girl or his common-law wife.

William S. Taylor must face trial for the murder of Viola Reed in Anacostia on May 11, 1917. He had just finished a term of fifteen years in prison on his plea of guilty to a charge of assault to rape, and was seen in company with the little colored girl the night before her body was found in a pond.

Julia Brown is charged with second degree murder in having, on June 25, 1917, shot to death "Texas" Wilkins, her common-law husband. She claims the shooting was accidental. James Mathews must face a first degree murder charge of having, on April 22 last, killed Lloyd Graham. Augustus William Johnson is accused of murdering his wife, Maggie Johnson, April 24, 1918.

Aubrey Brown stands charged with the murder of William S. Jackson on the night of May 3, this year. William Jackson is accused of killing Mary V. Watson on May 7 last. Annie Price and Charles Price are accused jointly with the murder of Robert Smith over a bootlegging transaction May 31, 1918. All are colored.

John Lee Clements and Isiah Smith, two young colored men, are charged jointly with the murder of Richard Terrell August 3 last over a row about a banjo.

Benjamin F. Coleman was charged by a coroner's jury with first degree murder for having, on August 24, this year, killed Walter Holland. Harry Dorman occupies a like position in connection with the killing of Patrick O'neal on May 4, last, and does not deny the charge. He shot Robert Washington three times August 29 during a quarrel at Twenty-eighth and K streets northwest. The wounded man died and McCauley claims self-defense.

According to the district attorney's office, it is more than likely that the grand jury may ignore the action of the coroner's jury in some of the cases where no indictment has yet been returned. In that event the defendant effected would be discharged from further custody. Anyhow, it is more than likely that the next term of court will witness a cleaning up of the murder calendar, one way or the other.

HIGHER WHOLESALE MILK PRICE ASKED
Producers to Charge 61-2 Cents More Per Gallon Unless Stopped.

In order to offset the increased cost of production the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers' Association believes that an increase in the price of milk of 64 cents per gallon is necessary.

This is the principal reason set forth in a statement which the association has filed with the local Food Administration. The association contemplates putting this increase into effect October 1, unless some objection is made by the Food Administrator.

According to the association the increased cost of labor, feed and equipment, with increase in freight, plus war tax, makes a higher price imperative. It is not yet known just what effect this advance in the wholesale price would have on the local market. Several local dealers have increased their prices in the last month and it is uncertain whether another increase is justified.

Piano Raffle to End Mt. Rainier Carnival
Raffling of a piano will be the grand finale of Red Cross week at the Mount Rainier Carnival.

This will occur on Friday night, September 20. The piano is being used for the Red Cross fund-raising campaign. The piano will be given each night to the winning couple in the dancing.

Tuesday night will be Macabees' night, Wednesday night will be Odd Fellows' night and Thomas Crowder will sing. Thursday night a boxing exhibition will be staged between Curly White and Dick Cox.

The reception committee was headed by William D. Clark, president of Plate Printers' Union, No. 2, and the chairman of the athletic committee was Daniel M. Hassett.

INCREASE ALLOWED IN RAW SUGAR BASIS
Food Administration Makes Grant on Showing of Increased Costs.

Sugar refining differential increase has been granted by the United States Food Administration, effective Monday. The established basis for raw sugar then will be $7.25, established 9-cent basis of granulated sugar at seaboard points.

This increase was granted on recommendations made as a result of investigation into increased costs of materials, labor, value of raw sugar in refining, and lesser scale operations. The investigation and recommendations were made by Oscar Strauss, of New York, and the Federal Tariff Commission.

The difference between this basis of raw sugar and the old basis will be accounted for to the Sugar Equalization Board of the Food Administration by the refiners as delivered.

Conserve Tin by Substitution.
Conserving of tin by substituting conserves of other material was pleaded this afternoon by representatives of the baking powder industry in conference with the Food Administration.

The committee was named to meet Monday in New York with manufacturers of non-metal containers to discuss tests of new packages for a few days. The committee will report back to the administration within a few days.

WAR WORKERS HELP HARVEST

Washingtonians Profit by Spending Vacation in Corn Fields.

Hundreds of Washingtonians and government employees have answered the call of the Virginia farmers for assistance in harvesting their crops and will spend their vacations between September 15 and October 15 cutting corn in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Loudoun County, Va.

Besides doing their patriotic duty they will have a healthful vacation in the open air, and instead of spending money they will make their expenses and something besides. Each man will work according to his strength, and be paid a dollar a day besides his board and lodging and railroad fare for one way. For each shock of corn over ten shocks a day the farmers are offering a bonus of 25 cents. Fifteen to eighteen shocks is the day's work of the average farm hand.

60,000 Acres to Cut.
There are 60,000 acres of corn to be cut by October 15 and the farmers need the help of the men and women of Washington. The war has robbed them of practically all of their help. Without the co-operation of the people of Washington hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of foodstuffs would be lost. The farmers again urge that all who can spend a week or two away from the city in September and October enroll with E. M. Hunter, Purcellville, Va.

W. S. S. Sales Aggregate Reaches $669,566,135.07
The Treasury Department has received $669,566,135.07 in cash from the sale of War Savings Stamps. This represents a total maturity value of approximately $804,766,385. Figures are not available as to the distribution of these stamps among purchasers but the Department believes that a very heavy percentage of the American people are buying them.

GRAND JURY GETS BOY MURDER CASE
Two Lads Held Responsible at Coroner's Hearing.

Charles Edward Swann, 15 years, and John Edward Davis, 16, two of the boys who were in a boat on the Anacostia River Wednesday evening when 11-year-old Samuel Dixon was shot to death, were held for the grand jury yesterday by a coroner's jury as responsible for the Dixon boy's death.

Young Dixon died at the Emergency Hospital Wednesday evening an hour after he received a bullet in his side. Swann and Clark both fired their .22-caliber rifles at a crowd of boys who were in swimming and the Dixon boy, who was in the water at the time, was mortally wounded.
